

Note of Editor-in-Chief

Global crisis influenced by COVID-19 affects every aspect of business activity. Women's entrepreneurship is an area that needs specific research attention in the wake of the Covid-19 pandemic. Therefore, the aim of this special issue is to capture research that can provide new knowledge with regard to female entrepreneurial behavior in this time of crisis.

I would especially like to thank Prof. Radka Čopková from Technical University of Kosice in Slovakia. She collected a number of researchers who contributed to the topic of this special issue.

In addition, we ask authors to quote papers from our journal properly, as well as to send us the papers that have not been published yet. The responsibility for plagiarism is solely of the author.
